I have lived in Faringdon now for 23 years, and one of the main reasons for choosing my location, was to be within easy walking distance of the fields & wild life, as well as a town. Humpty Hill has been a regular area for walking, both for me and many other residents in the surrounding area. It is not often you find yourself alone in 'Humpty Hill'!

The area in question may not be one of 'outstanding natural beauty' but is used as follows:

- Daily for many dog walkers
- Daily in term time for children walking to & from local schools.
- For tobogganing & playing during snowy periods.
- For Kite flying in appropriate weather.
- For just sitting & chatting during summertime
- For ball games.
- For fruit picking from the hedgerows.
- For spotting wild life

It would be a great shame if this area was lost to the public for recreational purposes. Please consider carefully before denying local residents of this site in its current form.
